ENVIRONMENTAL HEALTH SPECIALIST I, II, III (DES & EPO Divisions)

County of Riverside 330 reviews - Corona, CA
$51,479 - $86,505 a year

In the County of Riverside, the future is bright. With a variety of job opportunities with the County, there are as many places to take your career as there are stars in our sky. But there's more than a great vocation to draw you here: with affordable housing, a thriving, diverse, and progressive community, excellent higher education, and the hidden gem of the Joshua Tree National Park, the opportunities for your life here are equally exciting. Come work in the heart of inland California, and see how great the view is when opportunity is on the horizon.

The Riverside County Department of Environmental Health, a National Association of Counties (NACo) 2014 Achievement Award recipient, is a multifaceted department dedicated to protecting the health of people and the environment in Riverside County. The Department of Environmental Health has eight offices strategically located throughout Riverside County to provide the most efficient response and services possible to a county comparable in size to the state of New Jersey and having 2.5 million residents. Their mission, "to enhance the quality of life in Riverside County," is accomplished through a dedicated staff of professionals including licensed and/or certified inspectors overseeing and enforcing numerous programs, from food facility inspections to hazardous waste designed to protect both the public and the environment.

Current vacancies are located in Hemet and Corona.

These positions will be filled at the Environmental Health Specialist I, II and III levels depending on qualifications. Additional openings or locations may be added to this recruitment at a later date.
